

It's 3:00PM. Schools out.

What does your child do now?

- The parents of more than 28 million school-age children work outside the home. As many as 15 million "latchkey children" go to an empty house on any given afternoon. (Source: U.S. Department of Labor; U.S. Census Bureau, Urban Institute estimate, 2000)
- Working mothers report that 3 -6 p.m. is the time of day when they most worry about their children's safety.
- After school programs have the power to reduce crime, increase safety, bring neighbors together, and foster community pride and ownership.
- "Young people need the influence of caring adults and positive role models in their lives. Good after-school programs can accomplish that by helping youngsters develop the knowledge, skills and healthy habits to achieve their greatest potential." - US Secretary of Education Rod Paige and After school Advocate Arnold Schwarzenegger at the 2003 After school Summit hosted by the US Department of Education and Arnold Schwarzenegger.
- "Americans value after school programs and recognize the many benefits they provide. The public recognizes that after school programs reduce juvenile crime, help working families and give kids needed help with their schoolwork. Federal, state and local lawmakers can learn a lot about what matters to their constituents by looking at this research." - Mayor John De Stefano, President of the National League of Cities and Mayor of New Haven, Connecticut

Mission: Our mission is to keep our kids safe, help working parents, and inspire academic/physical achievements.

Our program begins when the students arrive from school. The students are greeted by our staff of teachers. We have a variety of healthy snacks for the students to choose from.

After snack, the students have time to work on homework, study for tests, read and build friendships.

The teachers are available to assist the students with their homework and studying.

We currently offer swimming 2-3 times per week mixed with a variety of games 2-3 days per week.

Transportation after school

We currently offer transportation from:

Applewood

Crestview

Hickory Ridge

Huntington

Kidder

Memorial

Towslee
