Planting a tree in a city park is a wonderful way to honor a loved one and to also provide a gift to the whole community. These park elements provide a remembrance to the past while also planting new life or providing a refreshing place of rest and renewal to those still living. They are a gift that can last through several lifetimes; a gift that keeps on giving.

The Brunswick Parks Department will plant memorial trees in both spring and fall, depending on the weather and availability of species.
